Brooks is an author, speaker, and youth crisis counselor. He has been called upon as advisor to several school tragedies and has served as Content Producer for several television projects including "Teen Trouble" on LIFETIME and "Bully Diaries" on Comcast On-Demand.

Brooks Gibbs is young, dynamic, and hugely popular as a speaker in school districts across the nation. He consistently receives the highest speaker ratings at teacher conferences, mental health training events, and student gatherings. He began writing and speaking on the subject of bullying in the aftermath of the Columbine shooting that took place in his hometown of Littleton, Colorado. In the decade since America's most notorious school tragedy, Brooks has spoken to over 3 million students, hosted national radio and television shows, been featured in publications like The Washington Post, The Huffington Post, and has been interviewed on FOX.

EXPERIENCE SPEAKING TO YOUTH AND KEEPING THEIR ATTENTION

In a world where today's youth are jaded and disappointed by institutions and people they perceive as out of touch with the reality of their lives, Brooks Gibbs is a refreshing change from the typical speaker.

Brooks understands the pressures, heartaches, temptations, hopes, and dreams of the generation that is just now coming of age. Students listen in transfixed silence as he speaks with the clarity and confidence of someone twice his years.

Brooks grew up in a dysfunctional family shattered by divorce and addiction. As a result his amazing story is one of learning disabilities and emotional insecurities turned into a compelling tale of life transformation! Blending bold truth and side-splitting humor, his message is powerful and relevant to all who hear him.

Brooks is considered to be one the America's top youth speakers.
